

What are building codes and standards?

In class discussion or writing prompt

Imagine that you are working on a design or construction project for a new home. Meeting the requirements of the energy code will add several thousand dollars to the cost. How can you convince the owners that the initial costs are worth it?

What are some of the arguments you could make?